

BANKING NOTICE.

THE UNDERSIGNED have formed a copartnership under the firm name of "SPRECKELS & Co." for the purpose of carrying on a general banking and exchange business at Honolulu, and such other places in the Hawaiian Kingdom as may be deemed advisable.

(Signed) CLAUD SPRECKELS.
Wm G. IRWIN.
F. F. LOW.

Honolulu, Jan. 14th, 1884.

Referring to the above we beg to inform the business public that we are prepared to make loans, discount approved notes, and purchase exchange at the best current rates. Our arrangements for selling exchange on the principal points in the United States, Europe, China, Japan and Australia are being made, and when perfected, due notice will be given. We shall also be prepared to receive deposits on open account, make collections, and conduct a general banking and exchange business.

STRAIGHT IN THE FACE.

II.

Our previous article, under the above heading, has been the subject of considerable comment in business circles. A few have deprecated the idea that the future prospects of the Hawaiian Kingdom have a gloomy aspect; but the majority concedes that the opinion we formerly expressed is true, and "we must do something." The disbelievers are those who feel, most keenly, the truth and who are afraid to face the future. Some say that sorghum sugar cannot affect this Kingdom, but that Mexican produce will. Others say the opposite. This shows that the mercantile community is not unanimous in opinion as to the cause that may affect us, though it may be unanimous as to a gloomy future.

Our morning contemporary says "The laborers are still coming and something like equilibrium between supply and demand must eventually be established. The price of labor must then fall and possibly will fall as much as the price of sugar has done. When we consider how large a part of the cost of a crop of cane goes for wages, it is evident that a moderate fall in present rates would make an important difference in the cost of production."

We ask what "laborers are still coming?" The only laborers now coming are Portuguese—the most expensive labor on the islands. They have been contracted for at certain rates which will not pay the planter with the price of sugar as it now stands, and at which it is likely to remain. The contract term of the first imported Portuguese has almost expired and the new comers will fill their places at the same rates. There is no other source from which to obtain our labor supply. The Chinese have been prohibited from entering the country, and it does not follow that, because a regular stream of Portuguese will be introduced, "the price of labor must then fall." The Portuguese have been previously contracted for, during the boom, at high rates which will not now pay the planter and they cannot be obtained at less cost. The city agents may be secured by their commissions and exchanges, but nothing is left for the planter. We hope that our contemporary will explain how "the change for the better in the cost of labor is near at hand."

The latest scientific reports, concerning sorghum sugar, are that it has been proved a success by means of chemical applications. It can be cultivated with little expense or trouble; probably in a very short time, portable mills will extract the juice at a minimum of expense to the cultivator. France has felt the effects of the cultivation of beet sugar in Germany. Hayti, San Domingo, Manila, Cuba and Mauritius have in their turn felt the effects of treaties. They have prospered and flourished, for a time, beyond expectation, and have ultimately become bankrupt. What is to prevent Hawaii going through a similar experience? The hard times will undoubtedly come, and the sooner the better so that our business affairs may be left on a firm financial basis, and that all inflated symptoms of prosperity may be abolished.

FLOODS AND FRESHETS.

The very heavy rain that commenced shortly before midnight, and has fallen almost continuously since, has done considerable damage around Honolulu. All the streams were turned into rushing torrents and had reached their greatest height between four and five o'clock. The road at the Chinese Theater was covered to a depth of four feet and all the recent repairs have been entirely destroyed. Horses, fowls, trees and portions of buildings were washed down and several Chinese stores were completely inundated, portion of the goods floating into the harbor. The water covered the floor of the Chinese laundry. Smith's bridge was canted over and from it to St. Louis College was a sheet of water; all the houses in the locality were flooded.

Nuanu Avenue seemed to have suffered the most. All the gardens on the Punchbowl side of the Avenue being under water at five o'clock and for some time later. At the second bridge the water rushed down with tremendous force; the viaduct across the valley was carried away so that residents in the eastern portion of the city will have their water supply cut off. At the corner of the Pauoa Valley road and Nuanu Avenue, close to the bridge, is a small store kept by a Portuguese who was roused up, with his family, at four o'clock by finding the water up to their beds. They rushed out without clothes which were kindly supplied them by Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Atkinson.

There was an unusual appearance on the road, in the early hours, of the residents of both sexes, in various stages of dress, all helping the unfortunate Portuguese family, whose loss is considerable, a carriage, furniture, stock in trade and the house being severely damaged. The water subsided about six o'clock but rose again later. The cellars in many houses were filled with water and the Nuanu road showed that it had been, in places, entirely under water.

Hon. John Cummins telephoned this morning from Waimanalo that 300 acres of his cane were under water, but it might not be damaged; and that a mile of his tramway had been washed away. It is still raining hard on the other side of the island, and has scarcely stopped since Friday.
